

Section 127-7 Restrictions on Cooking Fires and Recreational Fires

- A. No cooking fire is permitted on balconies above a first floor that is part of a multistory unit, which is defined as a dwelling unit or sleeping unit with habitable space located on more than one story.
- B. All recreational fires must be limited to a maximum diameter of four feet.
- C. All recreational fires must be a minimum of 15 feet from any building, structure, shed, garage, property line and a minimum of five feet from any tree, shrub, brush, fence, or combustible material.
- D. All recreational fires must be either surrounded on the outside by above ground noncombustible material, such as concrete, rock, or metal and have a noncombustible cover or be in a portable Weber-type device that is placed upon a noncombustible surface and secured and also has a noncombustible cover.
- E. Other than using paper or cardboard products as starter fuel for a fire, no cooking fire or recreational fire may burn any material set forth in § 127-8F and/or G, which includes, but is not limited to, rubbish, garbage, recyclable items, trash, yard waste, asphalt, treated or painted wood, materials containing rubber, plastic, leather, oily substances or petroleum-based materials, or materials containing any flammable or combustible liquids.
- F. No cooking fire or recreational fire is permitted unless the property owner and/or person controlling the fire has adequate fire-suppression equipment present to extinguish or control the fire.
- G. Smoke from any cooking fire or recreational fire may not create a nuisance for neighboring property owners. Refer to Chapter 207, Nuisances, Article I, for definition of "nuisance."
- H. Burning ban.
 - (1) No recreational fire or cooking fire shall be permitted during periods when either the Village, the Department of Natural Resources or the Village of Hobart Fire Department has issued a burning ban (the "burning ban"), which may be issued based upon one or more of the prior party's discretion. Any imposed burning ban shall be immediately posted in writing at the Village of Hobart Hall and the Village of Hobart Fire Department as follows:
